The Unsung Flavours of Sheffield

Sheffield is a city built on steel, song, and spirit — but its contribution to Britain's table has been largely overlooked. From Bassett's sweets to Batchelor's soups, from Thorntons chocolates to the fiery pride of Henderson's Relish, Sheffield's food innovators have quietly shaped the nation's eating habits for over a century.

'The Unsung Flavours of Sheffield' uncovers the forgotten stories behind the brands that rose, flourished, and sometimes faded. Drawing from archives, memories, and first-hand accounts, this book finally gives Sheffield's culinary pioneers their due — and celebrates a rich food heritage as resilient, inventive, and as full of character as the city itself.

https//dungworthbradfieldheritage.wordpress.com/

Made possible with Heritage Fund

The project is supported by the National Lottery Heritage Fund

The Unsung Flavours of Sheffield By Bradfield & Dungworth Heritage Group

The Unsung Flavours of Sheffield

By Bradfield & Dungworth Heritage Group

Compiled by Neil Anderson